BLOOMFIELD, N. J., NOV. 6, 1873.

The Press at the Newark Exposition.

On Friday last about seventy New Jersey editors and quite a number of the fraternity from New York visited the Industrial Institute in response to an invitation of the Directors. The journalists began to arrive early in the evening, and as they came in were cordially welcomed by a Committee, consisting of Messrs. Kinney, Foster, Guild, Prieth and Hutchinson of the daily press of Newark. President Halsey with Directors Ward, Holbrook and others, also present, were unremitting in offices of courtesy and kindness to their guests. After registering their names at the office, and having been ticketed with badges, the visitors, singly and in small parties visited the various objects of interest connected with the exhibition.

At about nine o'clock a tour of the building was made in a body, under the leadership of Hon. G. A. Halsey, after which the party repaired to the Directors' Room, where an ample and excellent collation had been prepared by D. V. P. Cadmus, the popular confectioner of 691 Broad street. The table was handsomely arranged, the centerpiece being a pyramid of large pens inscribed "The pen is mightier than the sword."

After the collation had been served President Halsey delivered a brief address of welcome to the assembled guests. John Y. Foster, Esq., of the Newark Courier, also came forward and made a short address in which an eloquent tribute was paid to Newark industry as shown in this exhibition, and in which the city was alluded to as the Birmingham of America.

Col. Morris Hamilton, one of the veteran newspaper men of the State being called for, made a pleasant address, contrasting the Newark Exposition, which was the exclusive production of a single city, with that of St. Louis, which he had seen, and which would be more appropriately termed an Exposition of the Great West.

Judge Guild, of the Newark Journal, was earnestly called upon and responded in a neat speech, in his fluent and happy vein.

Short and interesting addresses were also made by Wm. Hutchinson, A. B. Johnson, Benj. R. Western, Prof. John Plim, W. N. Ferguson, J. A. Beecher, and Oba Woodruff.

The drift of opinion as expressed in these speeches was in every respect complimentary to this exposition of Newark Industry. It met with unqualified praise.

Probably no newspaper man who availed himself of the opportunity of visiting the exhibition is to be present on this occasion will refrain from a natural desire to give expression editorially of the favorable impression made upon his mind by a critical survey of this exhibition. We can add little to what has already been said and written upon the subject. While the exhibitors themselves will justly claim, collectively, a large share of praise, we should say that the management of the Industrial Institute, the gentlemen who originated, planned and executed this grand work are also deserving of most honorable mention.

They have devoted their individual resources, honest ability and study to the work, and have carried it forward to success and distinction unaided by purchased legislation or political influence. Such commendable management makes the achievement all the more brilliant, and if it is pursued in the future, who can estimate what may result from this young enterprise?

Soporific Republicanism.

The Morning Register of Newark, in its report of the election, instances the general apathy regarding the election by saying that "a Bloomfield editor did not know it was election day until a friend called in to take him to the polls."

This little squib called forth, from a communication writer, in the same paper next day, an article headed "The Duty of Voting," from which we extract as follows:

I have for some time been mystified why Bloomfield has not kept pace in her majorities with her growth; it is now fully explained. Formerly they had no newspapers, but such live, sterling men as Ira Dodd, Dr. Dodd, David Oakes, and a host of younger men, who believed in the Whig and Republican principles; now they have hired, and I suppose they support, a sleepy editor, who does not even know it is election day. Republicans of Bloomfield, you owe it to yourselves and to the Republican party of the State of New Jersey to no longer depend on such an editor. If you cannot do better, go back to the old principle of every man doing his share of the work.

If the "old principle" is not gone back to, it is to be hoped this somnolent Republican editor will be aroused in time to cast a vote at the Presidential election in 1875.

At a Parish Meeting held in the First Presbyterian Church in this place on Tuesday evening, the request of Rev. Chas. E. Knox, asking for a dismissal from his pastoral relation with the above church was acceded to. Mr. Knox resigns his charge, after a service of nearly ten years, to accept a position in the German Theological Institute, in which he has been deeply interested and closely identified from its inception. While the church loses an able, devoted and beloved pastor, this rising ecclesiastical institution gains the undivided services of a gentleman whose scholastic attainments and natural gifts render him peculiarly fitted for the duties devolving upon him in this new relation.

Dr. Eben Tourjee.

The Praise Meeting in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening next will be a union services, and will be participated in by the different denominations of the village. No doubt it will be extremely interesting. Dr. Eben Tourjee, of Boston, who is to be present as the leader of the services, has a wide reputation as a conductor of Choral music. The following extracts, taken from an editorial in the Northern Christian Advocate afford some idea of this gentleman's method: "He combines the choir and the congregation. He makes instruments, artistic culture, and the great volume of undisciplined voices, all subservient to the grand idea of choral praise to God. No congregation can sing well without some practice. For this purpose, let the congregation be gathered at times, and with plain melodies let them all join under efficient leadership. He calls these gatherings 'praise meetings,' and with his spiritual good, as well as musical enjoyment."

"Dr. Tourjee is in this work, heart and soul. He is giving his rare talents, and his generous heart, to the work of getting the millions to sing the conquering songs of the cross. We are glad of the visit from him, and hope, as a result of it, that the way may be opened for him to visit our larger centres, that a new wide-spread enthusiasm may be realized among the singing people of our land. He may be assured of a hearty welcome to the interior of our State at any time, where he has made so favorable an impression by his warm-hearted zeal and his rare endowments, so happily consecrated to the great work and art of Christian song."

The Election.

The November Election held last Tuesday, by the light vote which was cast showed considerable apathy and indifference throughout the country. The results, almost everywhere, indicate gains for the Democratic party.

In New York the Democratic State ticket is elected by a majority of about 10,000. Both branches of the Legislature, however, are Republican.

In Massachusetts, the full Republican State and Legislative ticket has been carried, but by reduced majorities.

In our own State the Republicans have secured a majority in the Legislature, although the Democrats have made large gains.

In this county Peckwell, the Democratic candidate, has been elected Sheriff by a small majority, having run considerably ahead of his ticket. The Republican Coroner and Road Board Commissioners are elected by a majority of about 2,000.

Messrs. Halsey, Doremus, Jones, Morrow and Baldwin, Republicans, are elected to the Assembly; together with Messrs. Fitzgerald, Henry and Vanness, Democrats.

In Bloomfield township 490 votes were cast, resulting in the election of the Republican ticket, by an average majority of 140.

In Montclair the Republican ticket was carried by a majority of 59.

There is a movement among the female reformers of Massachusetts, looking to the establishment of a prison for women exclusively. A league has been formed to agitate the question, and the idea has gained a foothold which gives promise of securing the object aimed at. The project has unquestionably a substratum of common sense. If women will stoop to folly, and even to crime; as unfortunately too many of the gentle sex do, it by no means follows that they should be unsexed when the time for punishment comes. But the very idea of herding men and women in the same prison enclosure, however well devised may be the partition walls or other separating devices adopted, is almost abhorrent to thinking people. Upon all grounds, moral, social and economical, the two classes of convicts should be carefully segregated, and whether punishment or reform be the object in view, either or both may be best accomplished by separating the subjects into distinct prisons, where suitable and appropriate administrative and corrective measures may be applied. — Mail.

Miss Joanna B. Harvey, of this place, long and favorably known in her connection with the choir of the First Presbyterian church, has accepted an engagement as Soprano in the choir of St. Paul's M. E. Church of Newark. It appears that the people of this church were extremely fortunate in acquiring the services of this lady. We learn that an advantageous offer from another prominent church in Newark would have been tendered Miss Harvey had not the Committee from St. Paul's secured her so promptly on the evening of the vocal concert at the Rink. Miss Harvey will take with her from Bloomfield the earnest wishes of a large circle of friends for her success in the new professional relation she assumes.

Among the interesting features of art and industry to be seen at the Rink is the publication of a daily paper, the Industrial Exhibition Programme. The entire business—editing, type-setting and printing by steam-power, is performed in the machinery department. We are indebted to the conductor of this enterprise, Mr. Samuel Toombs, for sending us a copy of Saturday's issue, containing an interesting report of the Press Reception on Friday, and publishing also a complete list of the newspaper-editors who were present on that occasion.

About Town.

PRAISE MEETINGS

in the Presbyterian church next Sabbath at 10:15 A. M. and 7:15 P. M.

And now the gas pipes are being laid in Linden Avenue. Fiat lux.

An interesting meeting of the Mabel Association was held on Tuesday evening.

There wasn't much scratching of tickets at the polls on Tuesday. That virtue was sufficiently practiced by some of us to get money enough to pay our taxes.

The Montclair Herald for November, well filled with sprightly local matters, came to hand yesterday. By the way, we are indebted to Mr. Clark, of that paper, for editorial favors last week.

We are informed that the Wallaces, favorably known in New York as musicians and instructors in the art of Terpsichore, contemplate forming select classes in dancing in this village at an early day.

There are always to be found, in these tight times plenty of and croakers who cry up hard times merely to get rid of paying small bills which they could pay if they would.

The township of East Orange has commenced suit against the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad, to compel the company to comply with the ordinance directing them to erect gates at all the crossings in the township.

Don't fail to attend the

to be held in the Presbyterian church next Sabbath, both morning and evening.

At a meeting of the Harmonic Society, Wednesday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President John Chambers; Vice President Miss Annie Snelcker; Sec'y E. B. Kennedy; Treas. N. A. Hayes.

The music in the back yard occasioned by slaking coal ashes in a sieve, although a little monotonous, is very fashionable these panicky times. The I. X. L. sifter sold by Hargraves & Hayes is a good instrument. Just try one.

A real estate auction sale took place last Thursday afternoon, being the property of John O'Rourke, located in West Orange and Bloomfield on Mount Olive avenue. Notwithstanding the hard times, fifty-one lots were disposed of at an average price of $10 per foot front.

Prof. Crook, the well known preceptor of Elizabeth, and well known to some of us, whose services at the Praise Meetings held in that city have rendered such great assistance, will be present next Sabbath evening at the Praise Meeting to be held in the Presbyterian church.

The special meetings commenced last Friday at the Watessing M. E. Church have been continued throughout this week and will be still further continued. The praying-band from Drew Theological Seminary will be with them again Saturday night and all day Sunday. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

It is thought that the percentage imposed on delinquent tax bills is not heavy enough to suit the times. Some men can "make more" by letting their taxes remain unpaid and using the money in their business, even of this is true, it is hardly a fair thing to keep the township out of this money when it is so greatly needed as at present. Pay your taxes, gentlemen.

Five hundred men were discharged from Danforth's, and two hundred and fifty from Grant's Locomotive Works in Paterson on Saturday night. Both establishments have virtually stopped work. Instead of discharging three hundred employees from Rogers' Works, a reduction was made in their wages; but the prospects are that this will not last long. There are over 4,000 unemployed men and women in Paterson.

On Thursday evening, Oct. 30, a large and select company met at the residence of Mr. Chas. Farrand, the occasion of a Surprise tendered his son Herbert. The evening was spent agreeably in dancing and promenading, enlivened by O'Foke's unrivaled music. The supper also was prepared and served in a manner deserving of more than a passing note. At two o'clock the festivities ceased and all went away feeling well pleased with the evening's entertainment.

A woman named Bottocini met with a fatal end on Monday last on the turnpike between East Newark and the Hackensack bridge. Her husband was the owner of a performing bear which he had been exhibiting during the past summer. Leaving the animal in charge of his wife for a few hours while he went in search of winter quarters, he was horrified upon returning to find that she had been attacked and literally hugged to death by the bear, who had to be shot before he could be made to release his hold upon the body of the unfortunate woman.

The consolidated Grover & Baker and Domestic Sewing Machine companies have purchased the Continental Sewing Factory building in Jersey City, and they expect to commence operations in a short time. Between 400 and 500 hands will be employed in the works.

Cut This Out

IT MAY SAVE YOUR LIFE.

There is no person living but what suffers more or less with Lung Diseases, Coughs, Colds, or Consumption, yet some die rather than pay 72 cents for a bottle of medicine that would cure them. Dr. A. Boschee's German Syrup has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderful cures astonish every one that try it. If you doubt what we say in print, cut this out and take it to GEORGE H. DAVIS, Druggist, and get a sample bottle free of charge, or a regular size for 75 cts.

Louis Gaylord Clark, whose name was once familiar to the reading public of New York as the editor of the Knickerbocker Magazine, but who has been for some years withdrawn from the active world in the pleasant retirement of a country home, died suddenly on Monday at his residence at Piermont-on-the-Hudson. Mr. Clark was born at Otisco, Onondaga county, N. Y., in 1810. He was a twin brother of Willis Gaylord Clark.

A man in Plainfield was sent to jail for thirty days last week for raising a false alarm of fire.

Died.
